DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 1-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gospodar (US/4,090,481) in view of Nyfelt (US/5,563,453).

Gospodar discloses a human controller (operator of engine) that turns off an ignition switch (14) moving the throttle valve to the fully closed position. (col. 2, lines 41-68). It is inherent that switch 14 turns off the ignition and fuel. However, as applicant's attorney has stated Gospodar is completely silent with respect to a "computerized controller". Merely using a computer to automate a known process does not by itself impart nonobviousness to the invention. See Dann v. Johnston, 425 U.S. 219, 227-

30,189 USPQ 257, 261 (1976); In re Venner, 262 F.2d 91, 95, 120 USPQ 193, 194 (CCPA 1958). Moreover, Nyfelt discloses a computer (12) that turns off an ignition switch when a car is stolen. (Abstract, column 2 line 19, claim 3)

At the time of the invention it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to automate the known process (i.e. turning off of the ignition switch) with a computer as shown in Nyfelt.

Motivation to do so would be to remotely kill the engine in case of theft.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed December 10, 2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. However, as applicant's attorney has stated Gospodar is completely silent with respect to a "computerized controller". Merely using a computer to automate a known process does not by itself impart nonobviousness to the invention. See Dann v. Johnston, 425 U.S. 219, 227-30, 189 USPQ 257, 261 (1976); In re Venner, 262 F.2d 91, 95, 120 USPQ 193, 194 (CCPA 1958). One reason to do so has been provide.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 3747

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
